LEXINGTON, July 23.

Copy of a letter from William Blount Esq. Governor of the United States Territory S. W. of the Ohio; To the Honorable Harry Innes, George Muter, Samuel M'Dowell, Caleb Wallace, George Nicholas, Christopher Greenup and Benjamin Logan, Esquires, dated Treaty Ground, near the mouth of French Broad on the bank of the Holstein, July 2, 1791.

Gentlemen,

I HAVE had the pleasure to receive your letter which you did me the honor to write me on the 3th of June by Cols. Shelby and Kennedy.—After much difficulty on this day a treaty has been made and signed between myself on the part of the United States, and the Cherokees (which I have great hope will be kept by both parties) upon the principles of the Treaty with the Creeks.—For the boundary agreed on I refer you to Cols. Shelby and Kennedy.

It would have afforded me great pleasure to have better served the interest of your country; but it was not in my power, and I beg leave to assure you, that while have the Administration of Indian affairs in my hands that I shall be equally as attentive to the true interests of Kentucky as to that part of the Territory over which I have the honor to preside as Governor. I am Gentlemen with great respect your most obedient humble servant

Wm. BLOUNT.

The boundary line agreed upon between the United States of America and the Cherokee Indians on Holstein the 2d day of July 1791.

BEGINNING at the top of Carohoe Mountain where the Creek line passes it, thence a direct line to Tugalee river, thence North East to the Oconee Mountain and over the same to the South Carolina Indian boundary, to the North Carolina boundary, thence North to a point from which a line is to be extended to the river Clinch that shall pass the Holstein or the ridge which divides the waters running into Little river, from thence running into Tennessee, thence up the river Clinch to Campbell's line, thence along the same to the top of Cumberland mountain, thence a direct line to Cumberland river where the Kentucky road crosses it, thence down the river to a point from which a South West line will strike the ridge which divides the waters of Cumberland from those of Duck river forty miles above Nashville, thence down the said Ridge to a point from whence a South West line will strike the mouth of Duck river.

The lands thus ceded is on the payment of 4,000 Dollars worth of Goods in hand, and 1,000 Dollars Annually to the Cherokees.

The Cherokees admit the free navigation of the Tennessee river and the use of the road leading to Cumberland.

The United States is to have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the trade of the Cherokees.

In every other respect the Treaty is similar to that entered into with the Creek nation.

Extract of a letter to Philadelphia; Fort Mifflin the 2, June 1791.

I can with much propriety assure you, that during the late war, I have never seen such a respectable and able bodied militia taking the field, in defence of their country.—They were composed of the first class of citizens, a member of Congress, members of the Senate and Assembly, Magistrates, Colonels, Majors, Captains, Lawyers and others, serving as privates in the field—the whole were well mounted and accoutred—their accoutrements were a rifle and a tomahawk; they left the mouth of Kentucky North West of the Ohio on the 24th of May last.

It is reported, that sixteen men were lately killed between the long Island on Holstein and Cumberland settlement, on their return from the treaty with the Cherokees.

Taken up by the subscriber a black mare, 3 years old near hands high, her near hind foot white up to the pasture joint, and the other white behind, has the mark of a pack rope round her body, a natural pacer, not branded; appraised to £. 8. 10.

DESERTED

FROM my company of the 1st Regiment in the service of the United States, Elias Gandy about twenty years of age, five feet nine inches high, fair complexion, broad full face, short light coloured hair, was born in Bedford county, State of Pennsylvania,---having relations living near Lexington, it is presumed he is some where in that neighbourhood.

Likewise George M Daniel, aged twenty years strong bodied, walks erect, and very active at any exercise, the third finger of his left hand has been cut off, and is so remarkable from the great vacancy between the fingers that it may easily lead to a discovery of him, his dialect is broad, and his delivery slow, of a pleasing countenance, but very simple manners, he is by trade a taylor and was born in Newcastle county on the Delaware. They took with them several articles of soldiers clothing particularly white linen overalls and Russia sheeting jackets with sleeves, and a lapell of scarlet raiment; also soldiers hats, bound round with white worsted binding, which they will doubtless rip off to prevent a discovery--each of the above Soldiers carried away with him a musquet with the letters U. S. stamped on their respective barrels, together with a part of their accoutrements. It is supposed they will remain for some time in the neighbourhood of Lexington; it is therefore hoped that every good citizen, particularly civil and military officers, will use their endeavours, to have them apprehended, for which a reward of twenty dollars, will be given, or ten dollars for each or either of them, together with all reasonable expences.

JOHN ARMSTRONG,

Capt. 1st. Regt. U. S.
